

I was especially interested in the Marseille exchange program between Pädagogische Hochschule freiburg (P.H. Freiburg) and Aix Marseille University for its commitment to enhance education, learning, and research. Participating in this global academic exchange program offered an incredible opportunity to be a part of an energetic, dynamic group of people who are passionate, curious, and committed to teaching future generations of world leaders. Studying during this exchange expanded my knowledge of global educational practices and this experience will enable me to apply my pedagogical training once I return to Canada. By choosing to participate in this exchange, I developed pedagogy that delivers high value in community service and working with international colleagues who shared my deep-rooted sense of community and shared purpose to better the world.

Sincerely,
